TIPS FOR MAKING SCARECROWS

Scarecrows will be subject to the weather for over a month so they need to be constructed with weather-resistant materials. Clothing that does not fade easily, such as nylons and polyesters, holds up better than cottons.

Scarecrows may be either freestanding or built around a PVC form provided by the Gardens. The standard form is 6 feet high but can be built pretty much to your needs. All joints must be secured with PVC cement.

Stuffing can be anything however loose newspapers, straw or water-soluble peanuts will not work. These items can be placed inside plastic bags for stuffing and plastic soda bottles make great arms and legs. Duct tape works best for securing bags to the form.

Facial expression is the first thing a viewer will notice. You can use an old milk or bleach jug, pot, ball, gourd, pillowcase, or burlap bag (with painted or sewed on face).

Ideas for hair include a wig, shredded plastic or cloth, yarn, broom, moss, raffia, or old mop head. Or you can just use a securely placed hat or cap.

Clothes are usually the easiest part and FREE-or nearly so. Check out thrift stores for colorful and cheap clothing and accessories.

Latex gloves quickly disintegrate outdoors. Cloth or leather works well. Do not use live plant material or fresh pumpkins in your display.

Remember the details--a glittering pair of high-heeled shoes, dramatic hat or oversized earrings, for example, will make all the difference.

These 'crows stay out in the Garden so make sure everything is secure. Sewing or large safety pins work well to hold clothes together and adhesive caulk is great for securing accessories.
